Churchill Hints He Will Ask U. S. Financial Aid

CIO Set To Hit Steel For Wage Boost

Murray and Union Get Convention OK For New Demands

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—Phillip Murray and his steelworkers, armed with a declaration from the CIO convention to go after wage increases regardless of the stabilization program, will meet in Atlantic City next week to shape their contract demands.

The meeting, beginning Wednesday, will be of significance to the government, to industry, and to thousands of wage earners in and out of the steel industry, because of the possible impact of those demands on the nation's wage controls.

Largely through the influence of Murray, who heads both the CIO and the Steelworkers, the CIO convention adopted a resolution which, in effect, poses a torpedo at the stabilization program.

Before the convention adjourned yesterday, the delegates declared that prices and profits were soaring and that wage earners were being asked to shoulder the only controls which were working.

Blames Congress

Murray blamed Congress and the Defense Production Act for that. However, he said that regardless of who was at fault, the Wage Stabilization Board should not interfere with negotiated agreements.

Murray and the steel industry are expected to begin contract talks within a couple weeks. The contract of the million-member steel union expires Dec. 11.

Just what Murray will try for is still a big question, but around the convention the delegates were speculating that he would settle for a 10-cent hourly wage boost, plus about four cents more in so-called "fringe" benefits.

His members now average about $1.90 an hour.

Under the government's present policy, which allows increases in step with cost of living advances, the steel workers would be entitled to a boost of about 4 cents an hour.

They had most of the estimated 12 per cent cost of living raise last year. Murray already has said 4 cents would be "very low" as a wage demand.

Other Likely Demands

In addition to asking for "substantial" wage increases for his steel union, Murray is expected to request a union shop and a guaranteed annual wage. (A union shop agreement would require all employes of steel companies under contract with the Murray union to join his organization in order to hold their jobs.)

Murray also would like improvements in the pension and health insurance plans which he won after a bitter strike in 1949, but those programs were negotiated for five years and can only be touched by agreement of the employers and union.

The employers are not expected to be anxious to open up the pension and welfare programs, although conceivably that could become a bargaining point when the contract talks gets under way.

"Remain Militant"

Murray wound up the CIO convention yesterday with an appeal to his 16-year-old organization to remain militant. "This is not a club

Crestline Residents Urged to Vaccinate Against Smallpox

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Nov. 10 — Crestline schoolchildren, residents, and all employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad in Crestline are being vaccinated for smallpox in the wake of two cases of the dread disease, it was reported today.

Paul Helby, about 40, of Crestline, a yard clerk at the Pennsylvania Railroad, developed the disease about two weeks ago. He continued to work, however, until he became too ill to continue and his sickness was diagnosed as smallpox.

Another railroad worker was sent home today with what is reported as a "probable case of smallpox." His condition and name were not reported.

Pennsylvania Railroad doctors were sent from Ft. Wayne, Ind., and began vaccinating all employes of the railroad. They have requested that all Crestline residents, especially school children, who had not been vaccinated within the past two years, do so immediately.

Raps "Pendergastism"

Influence Peddlers Still Operating, Says Taft

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10—(AP)—Five percenters and influence peddlers are "still doing business in Washington at the same old stand," Senator Robert Taft (R-Ohio) asserted in a blast at the Truman administration last night.

"Maragon is in jail but Harry Vaughan still is in the White House with his deep freeze," the only announced candidate for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination told a dinner audience of 1,500 at the Kansas City World War II memorial building.

(The senator's references were to John Maragon, former Kansas Citian who is serving a jail sentence for perjury, and Gen. Harry Vaughan, personal aide of President Truman. Maragon, was once a frequent White House caller.)

"The entire nation has been shocked over and over again by the low state of political morality in this present administration," Taft said. "Its partisans have not even bothered to deny the improper influence frequently revealed in congressional investigations.

Protection

"We know of the protection given the Pendergast regime in Kansas City by high officials of the government. x x x The nation resents the extension of Pendergastism to Washington and its domination in the political thinking of those who control the government."

The Ohio senator also leveled a sharp attack on the government's foreign policy and particularly on its handling of the Korean problem.

"Today the American people resent the Korean war because it is an unnecessary war," he said. "It has brought us exactly to the place where we were three years ago x x x except that 95,000 American boys have been killed or wounded; except that practically all of South Korea—which we went to save — has been leveled to the ground; except that we have spent billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money."

Taft left Kansas City late last night for Enid, Okla., where he

Sigmund Romberg, 64, Dies In N.Y.

Hemorrhage Claims Composer of Music Loved By Millions

NEW YORK, Nov 10—(AP)—Composer Sigmund Romberg, 64, whose operettas and songs are loved by millions, died last night of a cerebral hemorrhage at his (Ritz Tower) hotel suite here.

Romberg wrote such "all-time" musical play favrites as "The Student Prince," "Desert Song," "Maytime," "Blossomtime" and "New Moon." During the past 40 years he turned out 78 operettas and more than 2,000 songs.

Apparently in good health, Romberg arrived in New York, Nov. 3 from his home in Beverly Hills, Calif. He usually spent his winters in the East before embarking on concert tours in the spring.

His body was found on the bathroom floor by his wife, Lillian Harris Romberg, whom he married in 1925. Before he collapsed, she said, her husband had not complained of feeling ill.

Music Has Mass Appeal

Romberg always called his music "middle brow—music too lowbrow for a symphony conductor and too highbrow for a jazz conductor."

His music has a mass appeal, being replete with melodic love songs and romantic themes.

Other of his famous operettas are "Sinbad," "Her Soldier Boy," and "The Blue Paradise," the latter containing the waltz, "Auf Wiedersehn." He collaborated with George Gershwin on "Rosalie" for Florenz Ziegfeld.

Born in Hungary, Romberg came to the U. S. in 1909. Two years later he published his first song, "Memories."

A musical prodigy, Romberg studied violin at the age of 7, the piano at 8. In a few years he had mastered almost every orchestral instrument.

Of Talented Parents

He was the son of a chemical manufacturer who also was an amateur pianist. His mother was a novelist who used the pen name of Clara Berg.

With the coming of talking pictures, Romberg spent a great deal of time in Hollywood. His film scores included "Girl of The Golden West," "Up In Central Park" and adaptations of a number of his Broadway musical hits.

Romberg is survived by his wife and a brother, Hugo, who resides in Los Angeles. The Rombergs had no children.

Funeral plans were not immediately available.

Owner of 35 Wandering Hogs Sought

Week-Long Search Fails To Turn Up Animals' Keeper

The Marion County sheriff's office today was trying to find the owner of 35 head of swine which turned up last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone of near Meeker.

Mr. Stone reported the hogs to the sheriff's office yesterday after a week-long search had failed to turn up any trace of a possible owner. He said he had contacted his immediate neighbors and none had lost any livestock. Several of the area residents own no livestock at all, he said.

The Stone residence is located a mile and a half west of Meeker on Route 30-S.

No Luck In Finding Owner

Mrs. Stone said the swine were discovered last Saturday in their back yard and flower gardens. After trying to find the owner all day, they herded the animals

Marines Attack On Birthday

Pound Reds With Artillery, Bombs On 176th Anniversary

U S EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Nov. 10—(AP)—North Korean troops on the eastern front were unwilling "guests" of First Division Marines celebrating the corps' 176th birthday today.

The Leathernecks marked the anniversary with a terrific aerial and artillery attack on a line of Communist-held hills.

Another anniversary — Armistice Day, Sunday — northeast of the Punchbowl, will be "business as usual" for the U. S. Eighth Army, its commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, said in a statement.

Allied raiding parties met stubborn Red resistance Saturday as they stormed Communist positions along the western front. The Reds used small arms, automatic weapons, mortars and hand grenades against the U.N. troops.

After the raiding parties returned to their own lines United Nations artillery pounded the Reds.

The Eighth Army communique said elements of a Red battalion drove U. N. troops from two advanced positions southwest of Kumsong on the central front early Saturday morning. Southeast of Kumsong elements of another Red battalion made a six-hour attack on three U.N. positions. They were driven off.

An Allied officer told AP correspondent Milo Farneti the Chinese Reds were "apparently moving in a whole new corps" (about 30,000 men) to replace the one badly chewed up near Kumsong last month.

U.N. Repeats Truce Proposal

MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 10—(AP) — U.N. truce negotiators again today proposed that a cease-fire buffer zone will be created wherever the battle line happens to be when a Korean armistice agreement is ready for signing. "Minor and local adjustments" could be made.

An Allied spokesman said this would permit the United Nations to maintain military pressure on the Reds while agreement was sought on the three remaining points to be decided.

There was no immediate indication of Communist reaction. The Reds rejected a similar proposal earlier this week.

The Reds Saturday submitted a re-phrased version of their demand that a cease-fire line and Cites Risks Taken To Support U.S.

Says Soviet Wrath Provoked By Giving U. S. Atomic Bases

LONDON, Nov. 10 — (AP)— Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared last night that Britain had placed herself in the "very forefront of Soviet antagonism" by providing the principal atomic base for the United States.

"It must not be forgotten," he said in a speech at the annual dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London, "that under the late (Labor) government we took peculiar risks in providing the principal atomic base for the United States in East Anglia (eastern England), and that in consequence we place ourselves in the very forefront of Soviet antagonism."

"Has Every Right"

Therefore, he said, Britain has "every need and every right to see and receive the fullest consideration from Americans for our point of view."

This was seen as a broad suggestion that the United States think seriously of Britain's need for financial help for her rearmament program and her sagging economy.

"I feel sure this will not be denied us," Churchill said, speaking at the annual dinner given by the Lord Mayor of London.

As the 76-year-old wartime leader's suggestions were being made, a British treasury official said his government will ask—for the first time in 11 months—for fresh dollar aid. One informant estimated Britain would ask for $300,000,000.

Churchill's reference to Britain as the principal U. S. atomic base pertained to the more than 20,000 American men at air bases spread all over the country. But no British or American official would say whether any atom bombs actually are stored in England.

9 Huge Airfields

On the Kansas-like plains of East Anglia there are five huge U. S. bomber bases, and further inland four more are nearing completion. All nine of these bases will be capable of handling the huge A-bomb carrying 10-engine B-36 bombers.

Churchill said he wanted to see Britain "play her full part" in the anti-Communist world. But he said the country first must regain financial solvency.

The Conservative prime minister paid high praise to American efforts to deter Communist aggression as "the main foundation of peace."

"I feel deep gratitude toward our great American ally," he said. "They have risen to the leadership of the world without any other ambition but to serve its highest causes faithfully."

Work Through NATO

The treasury official said the British request for aid would be made to the Financial and Economic Board (FEB) of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which is based in Paris. The plea will be for money rather than military goods and equipment, and the official said Britain also expected to share fully in the new $4,800,000,000 military aid program authorized for Europe by Congress.

The request will be a reversal of the former Labor government's policy, which, after suspending Marshall aid last January, also decided to try to carry out its $13 billion arms drive without American help.

Religious Program

Marion Citizens To Be Heard On Radio Show

A transcription of interviews with representative citizens of Marion on the Religion in American Life campaign will be heard on a local radio program tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. over Station WMRN. It will be a part of a nationally heard broadcast on various networks at different times, according to information received here.

This national program is a weekly broadcast sponsored by the National Council of Churches on Sundays over approximately 400 stations.

The local program will be concerned only with interviews with Marion people held last month when national RIAL staff members were here to arrange for presentation of the national award to Marion. Those interviewed were asked to tell of the methods used in promoting the highly successful 1950 RIAL campaign in Marion. A number of the significant statements made by these people were combined to make up the quarter hour broadcast which will be heard. It was arranged as one of the means of honoring Marion for its achievements in first participation by this city in the national RIAL movement. J. D. Torrance was local RIAL radio chairman for the 1950 campaign.

Included in the transcription will be the RIAL month proclamation by Mayor Harold F. Robinson, and statements by the local co-chairmen, Dr. G. G. Nuetzel, Rev. Faulkner and Dr. J. B. Holloway, Carl Knirk, Max Birnbaum, Harry S. Elliott, managing editor of The Marion Star, and Robert Mason of the Marion Broadcasting Co.

A day was spent here by Albert Crews of the national radio and television committee and

County Home Defendants Take Action

File Series of Motions In Crawford Court

BUCYRUS, Nov. 10 — (AP) — Defendants in several indictments growing out of operation of the Crawford County Home today struck the first legal blows in their defense.

They came in a series of motions filed in the Court of Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl.

The indictments were returned Nov. 2 against Harold Dinkel, ousted superintendent of the home; his wife, Sarah, former matron; County Commissioner Walter Sargel of Galion and his brother, Arthur, manager of a grain elevator.

The three men were indicted jointly on one count of embezzlement and nine counts of larceny. They asked a bill of particulars on the embezzlement charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Dinkel were indicted separately on torture charges. They filed a demurrer saying the indictments failed to show crimes were committed.

Dinkel, also indicted on a charge of certifying fraudulent bills, asked the charge be thrown out as defective.

Walter Sargel, also indicted as having had an interest in a county contract while a public official, asked the count be made more definite.

Judge Ahl was expected to rule on the motions next week.

The bonds totaling $11,200 for the four were continued by the court.

The grand jury, which recessed yesterday, is scheduled to reconvene Nov. 26 to continue the investigation of alleged irregularities at the Crawford County Home.

Billy Goat Shot, Killed By Policeman

Ends 4-Day Hunt For Animal Which Escaped Monday

Marion's phantom billy goat was shot and killed yesterday afternoon.

It was slain by a shot from Captain Marion Tatham's pistol after it had been brought down by a shot from Patrolman Harold Morris' pistol. Morris hit the animal when it was jumping over a lumber pile about 100 feet away.

Police Chief Tom Coon said Morris' shooting was an excellent display of marksmanship.

Ends Search

The bagging of the goat yesterday at 4:20 p.m. ended a four-day search for the animal after it escaped from a truck at the Marion Producers Livestock Cooperative Stockyards on W. Center St. Monday.

The goat was a fast runner and could jump over an eight-foot fence. It eluded police on several occasions.

It was considered a menace after it had nearly caused a traffic accident.

Police continued the search yesterday after they had received a report at 9:30 a.m. that it was eating clothes on a line at the rear of an Oak St. residence.

Seen At Lumber Yard

At 3:30 p.m. yesterday the goat was reported at the Marion Lumber Co., and officers pressed the search, joined by Patrolman Morris who was off duty.

The goat was killed at the rear of 250 Ballentine Ave. after a chase.

The goat, usually amiable, became wild after it was brought to the stockyards for sale last week. It had been raised with a flock of sheep, acting as their leader.

On Vital Foreign Policy

Series from Taft Book To Be Published in Star

The Star is pleased to report it has received publication rights for a newspaper condensation of Senator Robert A. Taft's forthcoming book, "A Foreign Policy for Americans." The first of 12 installments will be published Thursday, Nov. 15.

The foreign policy of the United States is of direct personal concern to every American, for it extends to every family, every pocketbook, every effort.

"Battle Line" Drawn

Senator Taft is the leading opposition member in the United States Senate in this great political issue, and his views on foreign policy are important to everyone. They draw the battle line between the present policies and the proposed changes.

In his book, Senator Taft outlines the goals toward which he thinks our foreign policy should move and tells how he would hope to achieve them. He describes the mistakes he thinks our government has made. He outlines his views on the all-important problems of military aid to Europe and Asia, of economic aid to less fortunate nations and of meeting the Russian threat everywhere in the world.

Will It Be War Or Peace?

Is war inevitable? Or are there other ways to stop the Red menace? Could the Soviet system of infiltration and espionage be turned against the Communist states successfully, and could an international army suppress the rise of communism.

These and many other provocative thoughts are brought into the spotlight in this expression of views by Senator Taft.

Be sure to read this series of 12 installments from a book which deals with the most vital issues of the day.

Keep Red China Issue off Agenda

Hand Soviets Another Sharp Defeat In U.N.

PARIS, Nov. 10 —(AP)—Russia suffered a sharp defeat today in its campaign to seat Red China in the United Nations. The 14-nation steering committee refused, 11 to 2, to put the question on the agenda of the General Assembly. One nation abstained.

Russia and Poland cast the negative votes, with Yugoslavia abstaining. Britain joined the United States, Canada, the Dominion Republic, Norway, France, Iraq, China, Thialand, Mexico and Chile in the yes vote. Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain said his country felt "the situation in Korea" made it inadvisable at this time to take up the Chinese question.

Observers do not expect the Soviet Union to give up, however, without a final fight on the floor of the assembly itself to have the question reinstated on the agenda as an amendment to the steering committee's report.

The committee was voting on a resolution, submitted by Prince Wan Walthayakon of Thialand, calling for rejection of Russia's demand that the assembly consider the question of Chinese representation.

U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin said the Soviet move "is a proposal which has been considered and rejected nearly 90 times."

Union County Suit For $513 Filed

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE — Prosecutor Luther Liggett of Union County has started preparations to present the county's case in the suit filed by the Scioto-Sandusky District in state supreme court against County Auditor Frank McCurdy.

The county auditor has been ordered by the court to show cause before Dec. 1 why he should not forward to the conservancy district treasurer $513 collected since 1948 on a three-tenths mill levy for the district. About $6,000 collected in 1948 on the levy was paid the treasurer of the 17-county flood control district.

Prosecutor Liggett has contended $342 advanced from the county's general fund in the 1930's to help finance formation of the district organization should be repaid, and advised withholding levy payments until this is done. He has a suit now pending in the Franklin County common pleas court seeking repayment of the $342.

The auditor of adjoining Delaware County, James Samson, has received a similar "show why" order from the state supreme court as he is withholding $626 in funds from the conservancy district because Delaware County also is asking a refund of money given in connection with organizing the district.

for the old, the fat, the bald, or the grey-headed like me," said the 65-year-old former miner.

He called for his membership, now at more than five million, to crusade for "a place in the sun."

Re-elected with his entire slate of nine vice presidents, secretary treasurer James B. Carey, and an executive board representing all 40-odd unions of the CIO, Murray promised to work toward harmony with the AFL — but not merger on present AFL terms.

St. Mary To Join in Campaign

Seek Clothing For War Victims and Refugees

St. Mary and parishes throughout the Western Deanery will join in the nation-wide drive to provide greatly needed clothing for Korean war victims and European refugees, Thanksgiving week. The campaign is under the sponsorship of the National Catholic Welfare Conference. The drive, designated as the Bishops' Clothing drive, will get under way Sunday, Nov. 18, and continue through Sunday, Nov. 25.

The Rev. Father Urban Wiggins, assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic Church, is in charge of the drive to be conducted in Marion, Hardin, Morrow, Union and Delaware Counties. In charge of the drive in the diocese is the Rev. William E. Kappas, diocesan director of charities, Columbus.

Larger Goal

Because of the great need for warm clothing, shoes blankets and bedding to protect the people of these countries from the severe winter weather now prevailing, this year's goal is larger than a year ago. One and one-half tons of clothing from each parish is the goal, the Rev. Wiggins states.

The total amount of clothing collected in last year's drive in the Columbus diocese was 27,313 pounds. Distribution of the clothing is made by the War Relief Services of the Welfare Conference.

Bring Clothing To Hall

When possible, contributors are asked to bring the clothing to Moira Hall. Anyone having clothing and not able to transport it to the hall is asked to contact the Rev. Wiggins or some member of the parish. The clothing will be packed by the international relations committee of the National Council of Catholic Women of which Mrs. Carl Sheehe is chairman.

THE REV. FR. WIGGINS

The campaign is designated as a gifts-in-kind, not cash, the sponsors state. More than nine million people in Germany and Austria alone, who have either fled their homelands or were forced to flee them, as well as numberless other refugees in the Near and Far East, need all the usable clothing and wearable shoes that can be collected. Distribution of materials collected will be made solely on need alone, not race, creed nor color, the pastor stated.

Jury Declares Woman Love Slayer Insane

NEWARK, O., Nov. 10—(AP)—Joanne Thomas, who shot her lover to death in a jealous moment, was declared insane by a jury last night and ordered committed to Lima State Hospital until doctors say her sanity has returned.

The pretty, 25-year-old Newark woman sat as though in a daze as after four hours, the six man, six woman jury brought in a verdict of innocent by reason of insanity. She had been indicted for first-degree murder.

Her defense attorney had pleaded she was temporarily insane last Sept. 12 when she shot Frank Rizzo, 30.

A special police guard, called by Common Pleas Judge Charles P. Holtsberry to prevent a possible demonstration, kept spectators and newsmen from getting near Miss Thomas.

Sheriff William McElroy led her immediately to her cell in the county jail, where she will await transfer to Lima.

Prosecutor Forrest B. Ashcraft, who had called the shooting "a clear case of first-degree murder" in his final arguments to the jury, declined to comment on the verdict.

More Show Interest In Nomination

WASHINGTON, Nov 10—(AP)—The scramble between Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and backers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for nominating votes seemed likely today to bring an early crop of Republican "favorite son" presidential candidates.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, second man on the defeated 1948 GOP national ticket, apparently was on the verge of making himself available for the top spot in 1952.

Warren said he will announce a decision in a week. Senator Knowland (R-Calif), close political friend of the governor, predicted Warren will be in there pitching for delegates.

Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota who now heads the University of Pennsylvania, told a Chicago news conference his plans for 1952 will be open for analysis until January. Stassen, who has said he won't support Taft for the nomination, indicated it was less likely he would run if Eisenhower does.

State Backing

Neither Stassen nor Warren is, strictly speaking, a "favorite son" candidate in the sense that either will have to depend solely on his own state for support. But Warren will have to lean primarily on California's backing and Stassen will have to look to Minnesota unless the political picture changes rapidly.

There are some other possible "favorite son" candidates in the offing and developments may bring them out into the open soon.

Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey is regarded as a possible bidder for national honors. Senator Wherry of Nebraska probably would like to have his state's vote and Senator Millikin of Colorado might get that state's support at the GOP convention while delegates size the situation up.

Taft kept his campaign going today with speeches in Oklahoma. Senator Duff (R-Pa), pounded away for Eisenhower support in Texas. In Rhode Island, Vincent C. Jones announced a new drive for the general there.

In New York, J. Russel Sprague, national committeeman, was quoted as saying he has been "assured" that Eisenhower would run.

buffer zone be created right now.

The U.N. spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, indicated it would be rejected.

Nuckols said it was "at first glance" merely a re-phrasing of their proposal of Nov. 7.

Both proposals were submitted in Saturday's afternoon session. Negotiators agreed to meet again Sunday morning at 11 (9 p.m. Saturday EST).

Y Men Hear Manager Of Goodrich Plant

Joseph Beardon Tells About Rubber Industry

Joseph B. Beardon, manager of the new Goodrich plant near Green Camp, gave facts about the rubber industry when he spoke before the Y Men's Service Club Thursday night at the YMCA.

Mr. Beardon reported that the government completely controls the crude rubber industry as far as importing, allocation to industry and prices. A question and answer period about the new Goodrich plant followed the plant manager's discussion. The new building is nearing completion and is one of 29 manufacturing facilities owned by Goodrich.

A report of the Christmas tree ticket sale was given by Harold Henry, chairman of the committee. Plans were announced to erect a small building for the Christmas tree sale at the Central Junior High School grounds. Deposit tickets for Christmas trees may be purchased for $1 from members of the club.

The next meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 13, at Holiday Hill near Delaware. Ladies' night has been planned.

Guests were Phillip Boyd and Daniel Roecker.

Allies To Set Up Mid-East Defense Over Arab Protest

PARIS, Nov. 10—(AP)—The Big Three and Turkey joined in a four-power declaration today that they would set up an Allied Middle East command, despite Arab objections.

The statement said the U.S., Britain, France and Turkey had decided to go ahead with the Mideast allied defense organization because "defense of the Middle East is vital to the free world and its defense against outside aggression can be secured only by cooperation of all interested states".

Some Arab States have said they are unwilling to join any Allied defense setup in the Mideast, and have insisted that the Arab bloc of states themselves could provide adequate defenses for that area against possible Communist aggression.

Syrian Cabinet Quits

DAMASCUS, SYRIA, Nov. 10—(AP)—Syria's premier Hassan El Hakeem, who favors the western-sponsored Middle East defense project, announced the resignation of his cabinet today.

El Hakeem told a news conference his government fell as the result of a statement Oct. 23 by foreign minister Faydhi Bey El Atassi opposing the defense project. The retiring premier said the statement was inconsistent with the policy of his government.

the jury and began shaking hands with his left hand. He lost his right arm when he was 22 months old.

Members of his family and friends rushed to his side. His aunt, Mrs. Gus Sora, embraced Phillips and then kissed defense attorney Paul M. Herbert.

Phillips had expressed confidence all along he would be acquitted of slaying the 32-year-old Columbus housewife who was beaten and strangled in her home last April 25. Herbert filed an alibi defense, contending Phillips as not at the Alter home April 25.

Phillips told newsmen he was going back to his job of selling insurance. He said:

"My faith in justice has been considerably heightened. I think the verdict was very just. I want to say my most sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who have expressed feelings to me in a most sincere manner."

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett, "We presented everything we had in an orderly manner. That's what a jury is for."

Herbert:

"I wish our Voice of America would tell the folks in the Communist countries about the American system of government where the humblest citizen stands equal with the state, and the jury is not afraid to return a verdict against the state."

BOMBER CRASHES, 5 DIE

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 10—(AP)—The five-man crew of a KC-97 "strato tanker" perished last night when the big plane crashed and burned at McDill Field Air Force base. The plane, belonging to the 306th Bomb Wing, was on a training flight and was approaching the field to land when it crashed.

The rapid fire crime wave, timed to hit the supermarkets at closing hours, brought out all available Newark police.

Hot Stovepipes Cause 2 Fires

Overheated stovepipes were blamed for two fires which occurred in Marion this morning and last night.

Damage estimated at $15 resulted after heat from a stovepipe set fire to the roof of the Elmer Eizer home at the corner of Barnhart and Gebhardt streets last night ta 10:27.

Heat from a stovepipe passed through vitrified tile and set fire to a partition in the home of Mrs. Viola Bradshaw, east of Jefferson St. on the south side of Fairground St., today at 6:43 a.m. A small loss was reported.

Both calls were answered by firemen from the Central and East Mark St. stations.

Invite Ohio Reds To Testify

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10—(AP)—All former Ohio Communists have been invited to testify at coming hearings of the Ohio un-American Activities Commission.

That was announced by the commission yesterday in a statement which indicated it soon would begin investigation of Communist activities in the state.

Commission chairman Gordon Renner of Cincinnati, speaker of the Ohio House, said no specific date has been set for the hearings.

The commission was created by the last legislature to continue work of an anti-subversive committee that operated during the session.

No Reports Of Lost Hogs

The sheriff's office has received no reports of lost or stolen hogs since the animals were found. Deputies were contacting farmers in the Meeker area today in an effort to trace the animals.

John Kemp, national publicity director, in obtaining the interviews Oct 4 The national committee men talked to 28 members of the local committee, representatives of the three major religious faiths, of service clubs, and of the women's, farm, labor, and other groups which participated. As a result of the outstanding efforts of these individuals, the campaign here was judged to be the best planned and executed of any among the 2,500 communities participating in the national movement. This will be brought out in the broadcasts. The national award of a bronze plaque was presented at a meeting in Trinity Baptist Church here Oct. 30.

Many of those taking part in the campaign last year have been engaged in the 1951 drive. November is Religion in American Life Month. It was reported by chairmen that telephone calling to Marion homes, "through the telephone book page by page," urging families to attend the church of its own choice, has been completed. Callers worked under auspices of the Marion County Council of Church Women under chairmanship of Mrs. George Leedom. A house to house visitation is nearly completed also. Veterans and Draftees Guide

—By—
Major Thomas M. Nial

From O. T. of Denver, Colo.: "I was married in 1950 and reclassified 3-A at the time. I turned 26 last August and was classified 5-A, the over-age exemption. Now I've just received a Notice of Classification saying I'm 1-A. I have no children but since I was classified 5-A before new draft regulations were put into effect, shouldn't I remain exempt?"

Selective service legal experts say you should be 5-A. Here's what happened in your case:

1. When you turned 26 in August the old draft regulations were in effect, so your board classified you 5-A, the over-age exemption.

2. When your board got new regulations it reopened your classification. Why? Because the UMTS law said those who were deferred on or after June 19, 1951, would be draft liable until age 35. Your board had you classified 3-A on June 19 because you had a wife. But the new regulations say you must have a wife and children to get a deferment. So your board put you in 1-A, not 3-A.

3. Now selective service says the reason for your deferment disappeared on June 19. Technically you were no longer deferred after that date even though you were still tagged 3-A. Therefore when you turned 26 you became exempt.

Write your board and request that you be reclassified back to 5-A.

From L. L. D. of Selling, Okla.: "We have a boy due to get out of the Navy next year. He wants to resume his education. Will there be some kind of GI aid to these boys?"

It seems probable there will be, but it's likely that any future educational benefits may not be so great as for World War II vets. Rep. Olin Teague (D-Tex.), chairman of a committee which has been investigating the GI Bill educational program, says he believes new benefits should provide an "educational assistance program" rather than a "subsidized educational program". His aim is to give the vet an incentive to study rather than fully subsidize his education and open the way for abuses.

I suggest your son save as much of his Navy pay as he can and also study as much as he can in service through USAFI courses.

From J. F. of Middletown, Ky.: "I'm 18 and a junior in high school. What are my chances of finishing school before being drafted?"

Good. Your board will classify you 1-S, a new classification for students who rate a "statutory" deferment. This is different from the 2-S deferment college students qualify for through class standing or test scores. You'll be in 1-S until you graduate from school, reach age 20 or leave school, whichever happens first.

From Mrs. C.A.H. of Kingman, Kas.: "I'm a World War I widow and draw $42 a month pension. I understand my income as a widow with no dependents may not exceed $1,000 a year or I lose my pension. Is the amount of the pension itself included in the $1,000?"

No.

From J.B.T. of Yonkers, N. Y.: "What's the quarters allowance for a 2nd lieutenant?"

If he's not government housed, he gets $75 a month with dependents or $60 a month without dependents.

Prospect Street Church Class Elects Officers

Election of officers for the new year was held when the Sunshine Class of Prospect Street Methodist Church met Thursday night at the church. A potluck supper preceded the meeting.

Mrs. Harry Wilhelm was elected president, Mrs. Noah Weaver, vice president, Mrs. Otto Long, secretary, and Mrs. A. D. Boyd, treasurer.

The meeting was opened with a song by the group and prayer offered by Mrs. Weaver, president, and plans were made to send baskets of food to needy families for Christmas.

The program, in charge of Mrs. John Kerr, included group singing, a reading by Mrs. Helen Wires, and a contest with honors going to Mrs. William Bechtle and Mrs. Closs Musgrave.

For the supper, bouquets of red and white chrysanthemums decorated the tables. Serving on the committee in charge were Mrs. Fred Haas and Mrs. Earl Harden.

Jury Hears Sheriff Coddled Jailed Gambler

CHARDON, O., Nov. 9—(AP)—More details of jail telephone calls by an imprisoned gambler were expected today at the prisoner coddling trial of Geauga County Sheriff Stuart M. Harland.

Harland is on trial in Common Pleas Court on charges that he pampered and gave special privileges to George Gordon while the latter was serving a 60-day term for gambling. The gambling conviction resulted from Gordon's part as manager of the now defunct Pettibone Club.

Records introduced yesterday by County Auditor Wilma Kronk showed that Gordon made 372 long-distance calls during his 60-day sojourn. She testified that, as far as the records showed, most of the calls were at the county's expense. From $34 last March, before Gordon was jailed, the jail's long distance bill climbed to $71 in May, when he was a prisoner, she said.

"George Gordon was not really incarcerated," special prosecutor Charles P. Baker Jr. told the court. "He was conducting his business from the jail. Sheriff Harland could not help but know Gordon was making the calls, and not merely calling home to inquire about his wife's health."

Woman Among Trio Sentenced For Robberies

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10—(AP)—Miss Jean L. Scribner, 32, starts for the Ohio Women's Reformatory today, convicted along with two rivals for her attentions of two loan office armed robberies.

Judge Joseph H. Silbert sentenced the part-time model to two concurrent terms yesterday but gave notice he would see the blonde did not get out when the minimum 22 months ended.

"I will not make your terms consecutive," the judge told her in common pleas court, "But I also will not let you slip out on parole in 22 months. You'll be in there a while."

Then he gave the same sentence to one of her boy friends, Coastguardsman Roger W. Evans, 34, who will spend his time at Mansfield Reformatory.

The other man in the case—Kenneth B. Factor, 41, was sentenced to a minimum of 13 years and four months. He has a record and will go to the Ohio State Prison.

During the trial, it was testified that Factor used proceeds from holdups at the Commonwealth Loan Co. and the Finance Credit Corp. here to support the trio in style.

Redemption Topic For Inquiry Class

"The True Meaning of Christ's Act of Redemption" will be the subject of the fourth Inquiry class to be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Moira Hall.

The Rev. Father Urban Wiggins and the Rev. Father Thomas Lowery, assistant pastors of St. Mary Catholic Church, who are conducting the classes in the truths of religion, will continue to describe the evil effects of original sin as committed by Adam and Eve in the name of the human race. They will explain the historical details of the birth of Christ as the long-expected Messiah for all mankind.

The priests have pointed out in previous discussions that it is vitally important for all men to fully understand the details of Christ's great act of redemption if they are ever to know Him and love Him as their God, and to appreciate the Holy Church which He left upon earth for their spiritual welfare.

Classes are held each Monday night at the same time and are open to the public.

One of Many Civic Projects

Yule Clearinghouse Sponsored by Guild

This is the last in a series of articles describing civic projects sponsored by the Marion County Junior Service Guild. Money to finance the projects is raised through the "Junior Service Guild Follies of 1951," which will be presented at the Palace Theater Nov. 15 and 16.

One of the civic projects supported by the Junior Service Guild is the Give-a-Christmas Clearinghouse. Last year the Guild sponsored this project for the first time. Mrs. Joseph Scandling served as chairman. This year the chairman is Mrs. D. J. Sansotta.

For some time the agencies handling the greatest part of the calls for Christmas baskets have felt that something should be done to make the distribution of baskets more equal and to avoid duplication. There are many families not receiving welfare aid who would have no Christmas without outside help. Many organizations and individuals have given that help, but often some families have received several baskets while others, just as needy, have received none. For this reason, a clearing house seemed to be the answer.

The Junior Service Guild, with the endorsement of the Welfare Department, Salvation Army and other relief agencies, set up such a clearing house. Its purpose is threefold: (1) to keep a strictly confidential file of names given by welfare organiaztions, churches and individuals of families needing Christmas help; (2) to give the name of a family to anyone wishing to give a basket; and (3) to keep a record of families already taken care of, so duplication would be avoided.

All families whose names were turned in were investigated by an authorized welfare agency before being placed in the files. One hundred and forty-five names were given out to organizations and individuals and 216 names were cleared through the clearinghouse. This year the guild will again operate the Give-A-Christmas Clearinghouse with the hope that all who need it will receive a Christmas basket.

"My you look happy, what's going on tonight"?

A conversation heard more often these days. A neighbor drops in and says, "My you look happy, what's going on tonight?" The other says, "John is taking me to the Ritz Bar & Grill for dinner." Suggestion. If you happen to be married, and want to make a real hit with the little woman, bring her here for dinner tonight. It's a treat she will never forget.

BABY, IT'S COLD (HOT) OUTSIDE. While the greatest November snowfall in the nation's history hit the central United States and rain and 60-mile-an-hour gales buffeted the east coast, southern Californians basked in the warmth of mid-80 degree temperatures. Members of the "Tan My Hide" club (top photo) browned themselves at MacArthur park in Los Angeles. In Detroit, however, pedestrians sloshed across a downtown street (middle photo) during a five-inch snowfall that blanketed the city, while two motorists (bottom photo) tried to fix a flat tire during a downpour that lasted 12 hours in Cleveland.

Your Good Health

"Wonder Drugs" Not Without Complications

This side of Paradise, there are few unmixed blessings. Modern medicine has developed many new drugs with remarkable and even wonderful power to combat disease.

It must always be remembered, however, that these same miraculous disease-fighters are not without danger. They often induce complications of their own, causing more or less serious reactions. This fact, of course, should not lead to prohibitions of their use, but it does underscore need for proper care and safeguards.

Reactions to the sulfonamide drugs are common. If too great a dose of these drugs is given, crystals may form in the kidneys to block the urinary flow. The excessive use of the sulfonamide drugs in a sensitive person sometimes may cause a lowering of the white cell count to a dangerous degree. Recently, a case of glaucoma (a disease in which excessive fluid collects within the eyeball, thus causing blindness) developed, following the use of a sulfonamide preparation.

Penicillin reactions are fairly frequent and occur in about four per cent of the people using the drug. The greatest number of reactions occur after the use of penicillin in oil which, however, is not being employed very often at present. The reactions occur when penicillin is given by mouth.

A skin disease, known as exentire skin becomes scaly and foliative dermatitis, in which the peels, is not rare after penicillin treatment. Occasionally, a form of shock may follow a penicillin injection, and very often an allergic rash will develop.

Penicillin should always be given cautiously to people who have had previous injections, especially to asthmatics. Streptomycin, another antibiotic, will give similar reactions. However, it also can produce some nervous system symptoms. There may be a disturbance of the auditory nerve, causing dizziness, ringing in the ears and deafness.

The newer antibiotics, such as aureomycin, terramycin, and chloremphenicol may cause allergic rashes, but a more frequent complication is stomach upset, accompanied by persistent diarrhea, with itching and cracking around the rectal area. This is due to a disturbance by these drugs of the normal bacteria that do not cause any harm within the large intestine itself.

Once such a condition is induced, it may persist for a considerable length of time. It has been found that the administration of vitamins and the taking of acidophilous milk may be of some help in such cases.

Prexies Outscored By Sandusky, 39-20

By A. L. McCLAIN
Marion Star Sports Editor

Ranking 13th in the state, Sandusky's Blue Streaks added to their prestige by rolling over Harding, 39-20, last night before some 5,000 fans.

The Presidents' pass defense fell apart as All-Ohio Jude Theibert hurled four TD passes from his tailback position in the Streaks' single-wing formation.

Harding scored for the first time in the second quarter after Sandusky had jumped off to a 10-0 lead. Chris Brady, Tom McClain, and Jimmy Russell alternated carrying the ball to the 9 where Brady went all the way on a trap play. Brady also added the extra point by placement.

Comes to Life

Coming to life in the final quarter, the locals scored twice when Tom Turner went over from the 2 and later when McClain dashed 19 yards to the Blue Streaks' 1 where Fred Price carried over on a quarterback sneak.

Theibert's scoring aerials were thrown to Howard Elgart on three TD plays and once to End Holtzmiller. Ted Schwanger scored the other two TDs on running plays.

Harding will end the season against Fremont Ross here at the Stadium next Friday night in a game that will decide the Buckeye League championship. The Little Giants downed Sandusky, 10-14, earlier in the season after trailing by two touchdowns.

It was the first time this season in nine games the Prexies have run up against an exclusive single-wing formation. Many of Harding's fans who made the trip went away talking about the formation as if it were something new.

* * *

The Prexies now have a record of 5-3-1— not bad for a team which wasn't expected to go any place this season. By knocking off confident Fremont Friday they could wrap up the league title and mark up a highly-successful campaign.

* * *

The Blue Streaks drew numerous penalties for offside. Twice Sandusky was unable to kick on fourth down due to bad passes from center.

RED CROSS RADIO PROGRAM

"Vanishing Point" is the title of this week's drama in the American Red Cross transcribed series, "Errand of Mercy," which will be presented over radio station WMRN at 10 p.m. Sunday. The manner in which they meet their difficulties is deftly told in the play.

James May See Action Against Eagles

CLEVELAND, Nov. 9 — (AP) — Coach Paul Brown hopes Tommy James recovers from injuries in time to guard against the pass catching of Bob Walston, the rookie Philadelphia Eagle end.

James was injured last Sunday in the Cleveland Browns' victory over the Chicago Cardinals. He usually plays defensive right half for the Browns and would be the man normally detailed in tomorrow's game to stop the high scoring end from Columbus.

Walston, who played college ball at Georgia before joining the Eagles, is the high scorer so far in the National Pro Football League race with 59 markers.

James missed practice all week because of his hurt knee.

As long as he is wishing, says Brown, he hopes the weather continues mild through the game.

"Look at 'em, go," he exclaimed yesterday while watching the Browns practice after the unseasonable cold snap in Cleveland. "A nice day comes along and the kids really get eager."

"Brother, how I hope this weather lasts until Sunday. What's more, I hope it has the same stimulating effect on the boys," he added. "We have to be ready for the Eagles."

"We're heading into that part of the schedule where a break might decide the championship. We have to be ready every week," Brown added.

The Eagles have won three and lost three while the Browns have won five and lost one and now lead the league's American division.

Elm Valley Rolls Over Irish, 54-7

By JOHN SHORT

A well-conditioned, sharply trained, Elm Valley eleven rolled to an impressive 54-6 win over St. Mary in the season's finale last night at Harding Stadium.

Playing before a Parents' Night crowd of more than 500, the Irish gridders were unable to cope with Dick Howard, Don Redd, Wayne Lust and Co. When Lust and Redd were unable to gain, Quarterback Howard took the ball and usually picked up the needed yardage. The classy signal caller posted two touchdowns and booted five extra points, threw a touchdown pass to Charles McGrath from the Marion 26 and hit McGrath with a pass on a try for point after a bad pass from center.

Early Margin

After being held to a 14-point margin in the first half, the Elm Valley crew watched the Irish take the kickoff and march to their only score. Jim Kilbury returned to the winners' 35 and Mike Anderson raced for 21 on the trick formation used by the Irish. Dick Gunder then set up the score by snagging a Kilbury aerial at the two-yard stripe where he was belted out of bounds. Dave Carr plunged over tackle for the score. Kilbury's conversion was good but an offside moved the ball back to the seven and the second kick was low.

Elm Valley stormed back after receiving to roll 51 yards for a TD. Before the quarter ended, they had added another touchdown to lead 27-6 at the start of the final frame.

A partially blocked quick kick and three pass interceptions led to Ashley's four scores in the final period.

Parents of the Irish gridders and cheerleaders were introduced during special halftime ceremonies during which Father William J. Spickerman addressed the crowd.

After Elm Valley had boosted the score to 34-6 midway in the final quarter, fans were expecting to get a preview of next year's team. However, Coach Emil Ihnat pulled his regulars only for short breathing periods. His first string backfield and most of the line was still playing when the gun sounded. This brought many grumbles from the partisan crowd. It was the most lop-sided whipping in the memory of St. Mary's most loyal supporters.

Howard was tabbed as the outstanding man on the field. With four minutes gone, he took the ball from center and skirted his own left end from the 10-yard marker. He cut to the right and eluded Irish defenders. At least three tacklers were shaken off.

One of the officials drew the laugh of the night in the final quarter. During one of their late scoring drives, the winners took to the air. When one pass went wild, the official pulled a perfect catch and with a clear field ahead dropped the ball after taking two steps.

The setback last night ended the Irish season with a record of two wins, six losses and one tie.

PREVIEWS OF COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATERS

"Cave of Outlaws" Billed at Palace

"Cave of Outlaws," technicolor western thriller starring Macdonald Carey and Alexis Smith, with Edgar Buchanan and Victor Jory in featured supporting roles, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theater.

It tells the exciting story of a search for hidden gold in a mammoth network of caves in the late 1800s. Lust and greed form the basis of the plot. Macdonald Carey is seen as Pete Carver, ex-convict, who returns to his home town to seek the gold which he had helped to hide 10 years before. Alexis Smith portrays the town newspaper editor whose husband had mysteriously disappeared while searching for the hidden gold deep within the confines of the caves.

But, he is trailed to the famous caverns by the leader of an outlaw gang who is determined to force the former convict to lead him to the hidden gold, kill him and then make off with the cache. In a desperate effort to make Carey "play ball," another member of the gang brings Alexis Smith to the caves as a hostage. Macdonald, joined by a Wells Fargo detective, engages the outlaws in a running gunfight.

Showing Tuesday and Wednesday will be the new comedy hit, "You Never Can Tell," starring Dick Powell and Peggy Dow, with Joyce Holden, Charles Drake and Albert Sharpe.

It's the story of a police dog who is left six million dollars by an eccentric millionaire, gets poisoned, goes to animal heaven and returns to earth as Private Eye Dick Powell to track down his murderer.

Thursday and Friday at the theater, the Junior Service Guild of Marion will present its "Follies of 1951."

MARLON BRANDO, AS STAN, plays rough with Vivien Leigh in "A Streetcar Named Desire," which opens tonight in a midnight show at the New Ohio Theater.

'Streetcar Named Desire' Opens at Ohio Tonight

"A Streetcar Named Desire," picturization of Tennessee Williams' Pulitzer Prize winning drama, opens in a midnight show tonight at the New Ohio Theater.

Starred are Vivien Leigh and Marlon Brando, in the role he made famous while the play was on Broadway. In principal supporting roles are Kim Hunter and Karl Malden.

he story is of Blanche DuBois, a southern "gentlewoman" whose life takes a downward direction as the family estate falls off to nothing. "A Streetcar Named Desire" tells how she flees her home town to come and live with her sister in New Orleans.

The sister, a normal young woman who has thrown off the dreamy memories of the past, is married to a muscular young man, who though beneath her former station, gives her happiness. But Blanche, attempting to hold on to her unreal earlier days, provokes her brother-in-law into searching out and revealing her more immediate past.

Outlawing Of Legal Abortion Is Advocated

National Meeting Hears Report By 2 Prominent Surgeons

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9—(AP)—Legal abortions should be outlawed along with those already prohibited by statute because they are "legalized murder," two prominent surgeons said emphatically today.

A third surgeon said too many permissive abortions were being performed but cited instances in which he said such surgery at least should be considered.

Dr. Samuel A. Cosgrove of Columbia University and Margaret Hague Maternity Hospital, New York, and Dr. Roy J. Heffernan of Tufts Medical College and Carney Hospital, Boston, favored abolition of the practice. They talked to reporters at the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons.

"Anyone who commits therapeutic (legal) abortion today," said Dr. Heffernan, "does so because he is either ignorant of the modern methods of treating the complications of pregnancy or is unwilling to take the time to treat them."

Dr. Cosgrove agreed.

Both Dr. Heffernan and Dr. Cosgrove said modern medicine knows how to take care of pregnant women with bad hearts, tuberculosis, kidney disease and other ailments listed by some authorities as warranting abortion.

Abortion is legal only in cases where doctors say it is necessary to save the mother's life.

Dr. John H. Morton of the College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles, told the reporters:

"I have seen three women die from vomiting due to the morning sickness of pregnancy. They might have been saved by abortion. I have seen women die of heart trouble complicated by pregnancy.

"This does not mean that all such cases should be candidated for abortion. It does mean that they should be considered. Every woman wanting an abortion should be given a hearing."

Battered Car Sole Clue As Cleveland Hunts Extortionist

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10—(AP)—Police had only a battered auto as a clue today in their hunt for the extortionist who threatened the life of Charles M. Prell, treasurer of the Cleveland Cap Screw Co.

They gave newspapers a phony story yesterday in an unsuccessful attempt to catch the person who mailed a threatening letter to Prell.

The clue was a 1936 car in which the blackmailer told Prell to deposit $10,000 in small bills. And police said they believed they would find the car was stolen before the threat.

Prell notified police of the letter and on their instructions wrapped a $5 bill around some waste paper and left it in the car. Police kept watch on the car but no one arrived to pick up the money.

Police then told newspapers falsely that they had found $10,000 in a car. They said they believed the extortionist was neurotic and that possibly he would show up to claim the funds.

Churches To Observe Armistice Day Sunday

Special observance of Armistice Day will be held by several churches at services tomorrow.

With emphasis on peace, Epworth Methodist Church will carry out all phases of the morning service on a patriotic level.

Recognition of significance of the day will be given at Wesley Methodist Church with a meditation on "Blessed are the peacemakers."

At 11 a. m. the Emmanuel Baptist congregation will have a period of special prayer in behalf of those in the armed service. "Since today many are perplexed because of the national call to arms," Dr. C. E. Hershey, pastor, will use a scriptural basis for a discussion of the Christian's attitude regarding war, he stated.

Following prelude at the Epworth Methodist worship service, there will be congregational singing of "America the Beautiful." The Preamble to the Constitution of the United States will be presented followed by pledge to the American Flag, singing of "America," and "pledge to the Christian Flag." After a prayer for peace, L. L. Dickey will present "A Look at Church Attendance." Responsive reading will be on "Peace." George Stafford will read Scripture, and the choir will sing "God, Our Father," a prayer for peace. Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor will present an appropriate sermon, the congregation will sing "God Bless Our Native Land," and the postlude will be "Battle Hymn of the Republic." For Junior Church, the theme will be, "Peace and Good Will."

Another War?

Within the span of one normal lifetime man has fought two devastating world wars, wars that were to end all wars. Now, again, the black war clouds are swirling close to earth, threatening to engulf us in the heartbreak and misery of another all-out, shooting war. On this Armistice Day, 1951, let us all earnestly pray for peace—a lasting, divine peace.

O Happy Day

A hymn that was written by a dying man

The frail man walked feebly down the gangplank. Before he left Northampton he had told friends that he could go to heaven from Portugal as well as from England. All his life he had worked hard and now that his health was shattered he had come to Lisbon to die.

Philip Doddridge was the last of 20 children by his London oil merchant father and pious Dutch mother. As a child he was so frail that his parents feared he would not live. But it was the other way around. Before Philip finished grammar school he lost both his parents. But the mother left her weakling son a heritage that not only shaped his destiny but has resounded across the centuries.

As a child Philip Doddridge sat on his mother's knee while she told him stories from the Bible. Around the family fireplace were tile decorations representing Biblical events. There was Noah and his ark; Eve's apple and the serpent; Peter crossing the Sea of Galilee, and others. She explained all of these and told of how her own father had been driven from his home by religious persecution.

O happy day that fixed my choice
On Thee, my Saviour and my God
Well may this glowing heart rejoice,
And tell its raptures all abroad.

O happy bond, that seals my vows
To Him who merits all my love!
Let cheerful anthems fill His house,
While to that sacred shrine I move.

There on his mother's knee Philip Doddridge "fixed his choice" to follow the footsteps of his grandfather.

It was an age of religious controversy and a minister was either for the Established Church or he was with the dissenters. But the mild-mannered Doddridge drew the admiration of both. His one great failing was that he ignored his frail constitution. While pastor of Northampton's Congregational Church he took on added duties of running an academy where he trained 200 young men for the ministry and wrote no less than 400 hymns. On his travels he carried a manuscript in his saddlebag and even while he shaved he had a student read to him.

But at 49 tuberculosis forced his hand. Friends advised the climate of Portgual and he went there in 1751. But he had waited too long. Three weeks after arriving in Lisbon he died and they buried him there in the English Cemetery. Four years later his hymns were collected and published. Among them is a favorite that was sung 100 years before an unknown writer added the chorus in 1854:

'Tis done; the great, transaction's done!
I am my Lord's and He is mine.
He drew me and I followed on,
Charmed to confess the voice divine.

Chorus:
Happy day, happy day,
When Jesus washed my sins away!
He taught me how to watch and pray,
And live rejoicing every day.

Trinity Service

Observance of Men and Missions Sunday tomorrow morning at Trinity Baptist Church will be marked by participation of Men's Brotherhood members.

D. H. Brewer will preside. John Cottrell will read the scripture and Floyd Burtch will give the prayer. Short talks on missions will be given by Miles Babcock, L. E. Gerard, Eric Williams and the pastor, Dr. J. B. Holloway. D. H. Gorman will give a tithing testimony.

The Baptist Youth Fellowship with representation from the Junior High, Senior High and Post-High groups, will have charge of the evening worship service in the observance of National BYF Vesper Day. Short talks on "Presence, Power, Penalty and Pardon" will be given by Ann Arthur, Jerry Wingett and Raymond Harty. Miriam Heisel will read a poem, and special music will be a piano duet by Julia Ann Gorman and Rosemary Sidenstricker

GOD NEEDS YOU — YOU NEED GOD

Soul Winning

A Sermonette

By DR. HENRY SCHAEFFER
Pastor of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church

"The Son of Man came to seek and to save the lost."—Luke 19:10.

THE BEST seeker of lost souls is the Son of Man who came to seek and to save the lost. Fundamentally, this is the chief aim and purpose of Christ's mission, and His deep concern for the lost is motivated by love.

To seek and to save! Quest and conquest! To seek; the long and tireless pursuit! To save; salvation and restoration; All this about a man named Zacchaeus who was regarded as beyond the pale of pharisaic religion. And yet the Son of Man came to seek and to save the lost—Zacchaeus!

Zacchaeus found a gracious Savior and his whole life is changed for the better. The old life, with all its rapacity and injustice, is thoroughly distasteful to him. By way of repentance, the rich tax collector goes beyond the legal requirement by giving the half of his goods to the poor and by making a fourfold restitution in the case of fraudulent transactions.

Salvation is an act of God's grace. Nevertheless Jesus recognizes the genuineness of the man's repentance by the conversion of his pocketbook. What Christ has to give—pardon, peace, salvation—is far more important than money. The greatness of God's forgiving grace deserves a corresponding response in terms of sacrificial stewardship and loving service.

MONEY! How the pharisees loved it! And how the self-righteous, jealous "saints" of all the ages love it still! How they murmur, not only at this demonstration of Christ's mercy but also at the dedication of the man's means to high and noble purposes. This is not their idea of a spiritual gospel. They believe in the salvation of the individual but not in group justice—social, economic, political, religious. They want to be on the receiving side of the line and give little or nothing in return for what they have received. They are the same selfish and callous people they were before conversion. Conversion, in their case, is restricted to a very narrow sector of their selfish lives. They do not appreciate what Christ has to give and so there is no loving response on their part, no self-dedication, no generosity, no Christian stewardship, no willingness to seek the lost, just so long as they themselves are saved.

But are they saved? We hope so, but let us see what happened at Jericho. The self-righteous critics go away empty from Christ's presence because they have never tasted the great joy that comes from seeking the lost. Christ always turns away from the righteous to the sinners who are eager to receive Him as Savior and Lord. To the men and women whom society, then as now, regarded as outcast sinners, He brought pardon and hope of a new life. In Christ's day, this work of love was left to Him and to a few faithful disciples.

AND TODAY? Most church people—and there's some good material among them—leave the work of soul-winning to the minister and to a few faithful members.

The best minister is the best seeker—not the most eloquent preacher, with the gesticulating arms and the holy pulpit tone, but the meek and humble, patient and enduring, resolute and courageous, polite and prayerful seeker of immortal souls. He does not need to be a genius to be able to distinguish the honest friend from the dissimulating, conniving foe. He learns very soon what undercurrents of resistance retard his work. The temptation is to lose one's fervor and become listless. But he may be a good seeker for all that. If he is he will refuse to be discouraged and rebuffed. Indeed, he will work all the harder and do his best work among those who appreciate his ministry. He is not self-righteous. He knows his limitations and believes in self-criticism in the hope that others may do the same.

THE BEST CHURCH worker is the best seeker not the self-seeker or the person who calls on others with a chip on his shoulder, not the gossip who loves to make a mountain out of a mole-hill, but the person, with enough love in his heart, to seek out people in the community and win them for Christ and His Church. Such work is not easy but it is worth doing.

If Religion in American Life is to have any meaning, we must have trained workers who are willing to call on the unchurched people in the community. In these trying times, every effort must be made to strengthen the church at home and abroad. This can best be done by seeking the lost at our doors: neighbor, friend, acquaintance, parent, husband or wife, son or daughter, the outcast perhaps and even the foreigner. Among them are some lapsed members who have drifted away from the church. Thoughtless church people, instead of exemplifying the Christ-spirit, drove them away. Others are unchurched for no particular reason other than their own indifference to spiritual values.

These must be sought out and regained by a genuine interest in their welfare. This is the task of clergy and laity alike. Christ's greatest joy was to reclaim the lost. Let the righteous forget their jealousy and rejoice when the lost son returns to the Father's house.

Why Millions Call Him "HOLY FATHER"

Catholic loyalty to the Pope is the cause of never-ending amazement to many non-Catholics.

They wonder how an exclusively spiritual leader can command the devotion of nearly four hundred millions of people. They cannot explain why this vast religious family . . . representing every race, color, language and political belief on the face of the earth . . . lives and grows through the ages, while man-made empires have their day of glory and then disappear.

What is there about this one man that causes people to speak of him in a hundred tongues as "Holy Father"?

We find the answer, of course, not necessarily in the holiness of the man himself, but in his Christ-given office. The answer is found by tracing the history of the Catholic Church . . . the history of 262 successive Popes . . . back through nearly 2,000 years to Christ Himself.

We know as a matter of historical fact that Christ did establish His Church . . . that He commissioned the Apostle Peter as its first head . . . that He sent His Apostles forth to teach men to observe all things He had commanded.

We know from the New Testament that the Church was actually organized . . . that it was governed by the Apostles under the leadership of Peter . . . that it was teaching Christ's truth far and wide, long before the last book of the New Testamene was written and the books of the Bible were collected into one volume.

Christ's purpose in organizing a Church was to make certain that the good news of Redemption would be preached to all men . . . even to the end of the world. To accomplish this with fallible men, required that He establish a Church—divinely protected from error in transmitting His teaching through the centuries.

The Catholic Church traces its unbroken history back to the Apostles—back to Christ. And Catholics today call Pope Pius XII "Holy Father" because he is the lawful and historical successor to Peter, the first Pope. He is in our time . . . as Peter was in the first century . . . the Vicar of Christ on earth.

Would you like to know more about the Pope . . . why the promises made by Christ to Peter and his successors make the Pope the most important man in the world? Then write today for a pamphlet which we shall send you free and without any obligation. Ask for Pamphlet No. 4-N.

Says You, Too, Can Be a Genius

NEW YORK—(UP)—The famous artist Alexander Archipenko says he has discovered a method for turning any sound-minded person into a genius.

"I know it sounds screwy," Archipenko said in an interview. "People think that genius is a gift of nature that cannot be produced at will. I say it can.

"I have developed the basic tenets of my theory to faculty members of universities in a recent nation-wide lecture tour. I have been working on this subject for the last five years and will present my theory in every detail in my next book called 'Creativity.'

"'Creativity' is a state of mind. Great works of art have been produced because the artists got into the right state of mind. What is needed is a method that enables us to propel ourselves into such a state of mind. Where to find this method? In nature, of course.

"Nature is the greatest teacher and the most wonderful creator. I am an artist but I am moved much more by what I see in the Museum of Natural History than what I see in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Nature is the original creator."

The U. S. had 44,670,588 registered automobiles out of the world total of more than 62 million in 1940.

To All Who Shared:

The accomplishment of any worthwhile undertaking is always the result of the co-operative effort of those interested in it. We of First Church are joyful for the completion of our new edifice and see in it a dream come to reality through the consecrated efforts of those who were interested.

For more than thirty years the congregation looked forward to this time and many of those who have prayed and worked and sacrificed are not here to share the happiness of this occasion We honor their memory and seek to build worthily upon the foundations they have laid.

To the many friends of the church who hold memberships in other communions we also express sincere thanks and to all, regardless of creed or affiliations, who shared in any way with the work of building, or whose contributions made them co-workers with us, or whose words of encouragement and advice helped so much, we say with deepest appreciation and sincerely, "thanks for it all."

It is the earnest desire of the membership of First Church that this building shall house a Church and that you who come through its portals shall find in its fellowship all that a church should mean.

Then we shall feel that we have more adequately expressed our thanks to you and that we are fulfilling the purpose God has for the church in service to all in the name of Christ.

Sincerely,
Donovan Hochstettler.

Waterproofing for Stucco

It is well known in building circles that a stucco or brick-veneer wall requires attention to keep it from deteriorating. It is also an established fact that once the weather gets through either type of wall and is able to attack from the back, the wall falls rapidly. A crack in stucco or a bad joint in brick-veneer is all the weather wants to enable it to go to work. A stucco house which has a half-timbered design in which timbers cross the surface as shown, is particularly subject to rapid deterioration.

There is only one certain method for preserving the surfaces of this type of house wall. That is to treat the stucco or brick veneer with a waterproofing which will make it impervious to weather, close the pores of the stucco, mortar joints and brick and enable the exterior to shed moisture instead of absorbing it.

There are always objections to using any compounds which would darken the surface of a house or cause a change in the color of the walls, and further objections to the use of any materials which would develop a gloss on the walls or leave a sticky coating which would catch dust and dirt and promote streaking of the wall surface.

To overcome these objections, one of the most important developments made in housing construction in recent times is the discovery of a colorless waterproofing which penetrates the pores of masonry, leaves no evidence of its having been applied and renders the surface of the wall impervious to moisture. This is now available to homeowners in all parts of the country.

The best way of establishing the merits of this form of protection for a stucco or brick wall is for the homeowner to select any area of a wall which seems to absorb moisture and treat it with this material. A careful check should be made to establish exactly how well it hardens and waterproofs the area and whether or not it develops any discoloration. The test being satisfactory, the entire wall can then be treated.

This material is also highly recommended for preventing staining from screens, soot and dust.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Removal of Whitewash

Q.: Can you advise me how to remove lime whitewash from outside cement block walls so that they can be repainted with cement base paint, which I am told will endure the weather?

A.: Remove the thickest part of the whitewash coating by scrubbing with a wire brush. The balance of the whitewash can be scrubbed off with hot water, with a cupful of household ammonia added to each pailful. Rinse well with clear water. Be sure all traces of the whitewash have been removed, if you want the cement base paint to stick well to the cement blocks.

Rug Over Hot Air Register

Q.: I want to know the importance of the air duct in the house. We recently got a new rug and it covers about half of the opening. Will this have to be taken off when we start using the furnace?

A.: I assume that your question is in reference to the hot air register being partially covered by the rug. When the heating system is in operation it will be necessary to move the rug to get sufficient heat. If you find that the partially covered register furnishes plenty of heat for the room, a sheet of asbestos paper under the part of the rug will help in the prevention of soiling and damage by heat.

Nail Polish on Table

Q.: Some time ago I spilled some clear nail polish on my mahogany table. I wiped it up hurriedly, leaving a bad streak. No amount of furniture polish eliminated it. What would you suggest?

A.: The ingredients in nail polish soften varnish and paint and if allowed to spill will have a destructive effect on the finish. There is no polish or wax that will restore the finish. A new coat of varnish on the top is advisable. First wash off all polish and wax by wiping with turpentine, then dull the gloss of the present finish by rubbing with "000" sandpaper. Remove all dust by wiping with turpentine and apply a coat of good quality varnish. If glossy finish is not desired, use a semi-gloss varnish. Always lay several thicknesses of newspaper on the table when using nail polish to protect the finish against spillage.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

A BIG STEP toward cutting out some of the unnecessary expense involved in building a house has been taken in New York State with completion of a new uniform building code.

Every home owner across the country, who has been compelled to pay for arbitrary structural details just because some antiquated local ordinance called for them, will be watching this new code as it begins to operate.

It's a very unusual measure It doesn't say in any place exactly what material you have to use. It merely tells the strength or other protection required, and leaves the door open for any tested material that can do the job. Therefore, it is known as a "performance code," in contrast to a "specification code," which specifies types and sizes of materials and freezes construction methods.

If, for example, a form of low-cost glass should be invented that could do the job of a steel girder and prove it in tests, such a glass girder would not be blackballed under this code

NOT BEING permitted to use new materials has been one of the big troubles with building codes. The National Association of Home Builders has long complained that "out-dated codes, requiring various types of construction and materials, not only increase the cost of most housing, but also result in a great deal of material waste" A recent statement from that organization said:

"What is permitted in one town may be prohibited in the adjoining city. Many codes are obsolete. Some seem to be preserved to protect entrenched interests of one sort or another, are weighted to favor certain materials, or apparently to develop the maximum volume of work for powerful unions"

Building codes are very important. They are part of the police power of the state to protect people in matters of safety, health and welfare. There have been building codes for 4,000 years The Code of Hammurabi, chiseled in stone, read "If a builder erect a house for a man and do not make its construction firm, and the house collapse and cause the death of the owner, that builder shall be put to death."

WELL, NEW YORK'S electric chair doesn't figure in this new code. It's more of a gentleman's agreement Although it took effect Nov. 1, it is still an optional proposition Municipalities wishing to accept it in preference to their own will have to do so voluntarily. However, home builders, civic and trade organizations are turning on the heat for local adoption

A county-wide campaign for the code has been started by the Home Builders Association of Westchester. In that suburban county just north of New York City, 37 different codes are in force. They are proving expensive luxuries for the man who builds In one community only clay pipe is allowed for drainage—iron pipe is prohibited. Across the line in the next community, only iron pipes can be used—clay pipe is banned.

"Architects, builders and mechanics are confronted with a complexity of disturbing variations from one community to the next," the builders complain "This results in slowdown in building underway, and additional costs to correct craftsmen's errors arising from lack of knowledge of detailed local regulations'

The value of uniformity is especially important because of the national distribution of building materials. Although the snow load of a roof varies widely with the climate, many performance standards of construction are basic everywhere

ARCHITECTS and engineers, with test data available from the National Bureau of Standards, the Underwriters' Laboratories and other sources, can readily design houses to conform with the new performance code To assist others, however, the State Building Code Commission is preparing a loose-leaf manual illustrating the various materials and methods ,that meet each performance requirement The manuel will not be part of the law, but merely informational

In preparing the code, the commission's researchers analyzed 245 local codes and building ordinances in New York State and found from one to four major deficiencies in most of them—obsolescent provisions, incomplete fireproofing rules rigid specifications and wide variations

The new code applies to one-family and two-family dwellings Other chapters now in preparation will cover other structures

Bloodmobile To Be Here Next Week

Residents Asked To Help Supply Blood for Wounded

Marion city and county residents are being asked to do their share in providing the blood needed by men in the armed forces and for civilian use, the local Red Cross office said today At present there is no reserve of the greatly needed blood plasma.

Quotas over the entire nation have been increased and the local Red Cross Chapter is being asked to assist by meeting its quota each month The Defense Department needs 300,000 pints per month from now through next July Blood is still being furnished free to patients at the City Hospital and to Marion County residents in other hospitals that are members of the Red Cross Blood program

The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be Nov. 16 The unit will be at the First Presbyterian Church on that date from 12 o'clock noon until 6 p m At this time all churches are asked to have their members donate blood in the name of the church.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

As I listened to Mildred Grey's halting preface to the explanation of her problem, I could hear also the words which Bess Conway, my father's alluring and super-efficient FBI operative, had spoken to me but a few minutes ago

"You may be surprised at Mildred's reaction," she had said, and there was a nuance in the voice of Bill's fiancee as she said she was "at her wits' end to know what to tell Bill," which decidedly gave me to think.

It did not voice the belief I feared she had, that no matter how unreasonable Bill's reaction might be to her acceptance of my father's offer of undercover work in her college at which was to her a munificent salary, she must abide by his decision Instead if I read her words and intonation aright, her problem was that of making Bill understand and accept her own decision.

My pulses began to pound with excitement, but I kept my voice quiet even as I countered her question.

"You are afraid he will not wish you to take the position?" I asked.

"I know that will be his first reaction," she said, "But I believe if the matter were presented to him properly that, after the first shock, he would see that I was not planning to be a Mata Hari," and her beautiful lips for an instant held an almost derisive little smile "However, he and I are too close emotionally—he will be hurt, and puzzled, and I can't stand that."

For an instant I dallied with the idea of suggesting that Dicky tell Bill first of my father's plan for her, but put it aside with the remembrance that it was Harry Underwood 's plan, and involved keeping Mildred in ignorance of Bill's knowledge until she herself approached him on the subject And then, in Junior's parlance, she "knocked me for a goal" with her next question

"Aunt Madge?" she queried hesitantly.

"Yes, dear," I answered quickly.

"I've thought of a plan It came to me just now, but I don't know if it can be managed—"

"Tell me about it," I prompted

"I was wondering," she began slowly, "if you or-or-Uncle Dicky"—she faltered a bit on the name, and I knew that she was finding it difficult to speak to us—or of us—in the familiar fashion on which Dicky and I and Bill had insisted—"if one of you could tell Bill about this first, and get him used to it, perhaps even get his consent to the plan Of course, he would be hurt because I didn't tell him first, but perhaps you could tell him that you had acted without consulting me, but would tell me what you had done Of course, that really would be a lie, but I am remembering a line in a play that I heard my grandmother once quote to my mother It was the curtain line of a heroine who just had lied magnificently to save her lover from death, and I never have forgotten it She said 'It is better to be a little than to suffer much'"

I nodded recognition of one of the most memorable curtain lines of the theater, and felt a distinct lift in my spirits about the future of Bill and Mildred This girl was no clinging vine, taking Bill's every word as gospel truth Her own capable hands would be close to her husband's on the reins of their lives

"I salute you, Mildred," I said smiling "You have solved a problem."

Notable Religious Achievement

NO OTHER type of building contributes as much as a religious edifice does to the impressiveness of a community's appearance. Church structures stand out more than all the rest as symbols of community life at its best, evidence that here live a people who give a large measure of their thought and endeavor to promoting human happiness and welfare through the spirit of brotherhood and faith in God.

Marion owes a debt of incalculable proportions to its religious organizations for the great service they have performed throughout the years in providing it with so many places of worship that it has truly come to deserve recognition as a City of Churches.

They are not more buildings of a material nature, for the good that the people who meet and worship there have done is evidence that these structures symbolize the soul of the community.

The latest and one of the finest additions to Marion's religious edifices will be dedicated tomorrow. It is the new place of worship of the First Evangelical United Brethren congregation on South Prospect St., recently completed after years of planning and work by members and pastors.

The congregation is not one of the city's largest, nor one of the wealthiest. But obviously it is second to none in power of religious faith and zeal.

This notable church unit is one of the oldest in Marion, having been identified with community life here since its earliest days. The first steps toward unification in the work of making religion a major factor in the lives of people of the neighborhood were taken in 1822. From that date on succeeding congregations continued active, always striving to help make this is a good place in which to live.

Its history is one which the members today can review with pride and satisfaction, and in this feeling all residents of Marion join, for everybody in the city appreciates tthe great contribution that has been made to the community as a whole.

To the congregation and its pastor, Rev. Don Hochstetler, go Marion's thanks and congratulations. They have won this expression from the city and its neighboring area by an achievement which will stand as one of the most outstanding in Marion's religious annals. Included, of course, are all those who preceded the present members and pastor in the years of effort and prayer which led to completion of the beautiful church home which will be dedicated tomorrow.

Cease-Fire: 1918

NO ONE speaks of World War I any more or even remembers that now-distant conflict—no one, that is, except those who fought and the survivors of the voiceless dead.

Even on Armistice Day, which commemorates the high hopes stirred by the cease-fire order of Nov. 11, 1918, there are more immediately significant things to think about than the things which were in men's minds when the fighting ceased in 1918.

But there should be time, occasionally, to remember that one of those things was a conviction that men had bought security with the sacrifice of their blood and treasure. They were wrong.

They tried to buy security again in World War II with blood and treasure—and the bargain was not struck then, either. But few expected that it would be. There had occurred after 1918 something which might be called the great disillusionment. Men ceased to believe that war could end war. They began to think of war as a last resort. They renounced war as an instrument of national policy—but a third of a century later they still have devised nothing better.

If there is more despair in the world than there was in 1918, that must be the reason. Men know they cannot buy security with blood and treasure; that they can buy only a little more time to seek security with some means they have not yet discovered.

Dr. Bevis Dries Their Eyes

A NUMBER of would-be martyrs who had been yelling about the loss of freedom, academic and otherwise, at Ohio State University are going to be disappointed by the recent statement of President Howard L. Bevis.

His office has no intention, he says, of keeping off-campus organizations from having speakers of their own choice. It has no intention of screening speakers authorized to represent religious foundations recognized by the university. It has no intention of restricting the choice of faculty members who may want to invite outside speakers to their classrooms.

The Ohio State business has been built into an issue for the benefit of gullible citizens who love to yip at the heels of public officials every time someone screams an accusation of censorship. There is not a responsible organization in the United States which does not reserve the right to control its own affairs. Ohio State is a responsible organization.

Dr. Bevis has advised the tearful martyrs to dry their eyes. They have nothing to cry about.

Eisenhower's Influence

By David Lawrence

Measured As More Important Than Candidacy

WASHINGTON

THE Eisenhower influence is looming up as perhaps even more important than an Eisenhower candidacy. It is already affecting strategy in both political parties and it could conceivably affect the outcome of the 1952 presidential election even if the general is not himself a candidate.

For it is plainly apparent now that the Allied commander in Europe has his heart set on influencing American policy in both a military and diplomatic sense to the end that his hard-won battles of World War II shall not prove to have been futile. He doesn't want America to scuttle Europe by withholding what he thinks is adequate military power.

LAWRENCE

More than anything else General Eisenhower is concerned about the direction of American policy toward Europe's defense. Does Senator Taft mean to carry on wholeheartedly the present defense program if he is elected? If he does, then he may win Eisenhower's support should the Republican convention nominate the Ohio Senator.

Does President Truman mean on domestic policies to carry on the present drift toward bankruptcy by policies of spending on nondefense items that have never been cut as they should have been? Is it the intention of the Democratic party platform to go all-out for a repeal of the Taft-Hartley act without any substitute that really safeguards employers as well as employes? Then General Eisenhower's influence, let alone his acceptance of a nomination for the presidency, can not be on the Democratic side.

THIS FITS IN with the remarkably good piece of reporting done by Arthur Krock, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, in discovering a reliable source able to say that the President and General Eisenhower did discuss briefly the possibility of the Eisenhower influence being thrown toward the Democratic party and perhaps toward the Democratic nomination with President Truman's support, and the implied rejection by the general unless certain platform changes could be made. Mr. Krock is unmoved by the official or technical denials, and rightly so because he has told this correspondent flatly that his source was in a position to learn afterward what did transpire at the conferences between the General and President Truman.

Unquestionably the possibility of Eisenhower running on the Democratic ticket has been in President, Truman's mind along with the possibility that the general, as a vote-getter, would be able to knock off Senator Taft. Assuming that Mr. Truman will stick to his present determination not to run in 1952, it is natural that he should want to see vindication of his international policies. Election of Eisenhower on the Democratic ticket would afford that opportunity. But it turns out now that the general isn't swallowing the domestic side of the Truman policies just because he is wholeheartedly in favor of the administration's defense and foreign policies.

SO IT BOILS DOWN to the fact that, if either party wants Eisenhower as a candidate—or, what is more important, perhaps, Eisenhower support in the campaign—there has to be a change in the attitude of Senator Taft, on the one hand, and of President Truman, on the other. Mr. Taft must come further toward the Eisenhower viewpoint on international policy, and Mr Truman must come further toward the more conservative viewpoint that the general has on labor-management relations, non-socialistic programs and federal spending as it relates to domestic policies.

The tremendous influence of one man who is himself extremely popular with the people and who may be in a position to swing the election next year will grow as he makes it clear that, while he is willing to serve as President if called, he has a greater obligation as a citizen — namely, to use his mind to help whatever cause seems to him to be the better suited to the critical times through which America is passing.

Sleepy Time Down South

By TRUMAN TWILL

YESTERDAY morning, with a sharp wind whistling through the corn stalks and a few adventurous chickens being blown into the next township, I fell to thinking once more about the probable effect of climate on human beings.

Generally speaking, nothing of any consequence ever was done by people who lived where the weather was mild. Moreover, in countries which have two or more weather belts, the denizens of the moderate belt always rely on the cold-weather stalwarts for their ideas and sustenance.

There is such a thing as weather that is too rugged; i. e., so rugged it presents insuperable difficulties. That is what holds back the Eskimos and Laplanders. Give those people a 40-degree rise in the temperature and they would rule the world by virtue of the grit which has enabled them to survive this long.

This is preparatory to a sniff about the coming flight to the sunny south by northern nambypambies. That is one of the milder words for them. They include, besides robins, all other living creatures whose reluctance to deal with winter causes them to contrive flimsy excuses for fleeing southward at the first nip of winter.

In the news at the moment is the temporary retirement of the President of the United States to a place called Key West, where this official and his retinue will loll in the sun and grow drowsy and complacent about national affairs. The taxpayers would feel more confident if they knew that their chief executive was doing his thinking in wool socks, with a touch of frost to keep him and his retinue wide awake and keenly aware of the cold realities of human existence.

Life is real and life is earnest. It is not all sunshine and the tinkle of limpid pools overflowing. It is hot coffee strong enough to erode the enamel off teeth, and it is steers backed up to the icy gale on the Great Plains, where a man who weighs less than 170 pounds needs to put bricks in his pockets.

But just as certain as the freezing of pipes and the onrush of chilblains, many of the so-called heavy thinkers of this country soon are going to be going to seed in the sub-tropics. We stalwart Americans who are too proud or too strapped to run away should be on guard against the inevitable consequences.

Human beigs who do not have to break the ice in the water pitcher before they can shave are not to be trusted with important decisions. They are no more to be admired for running away from the bracing climate of the heartland of America than the effete robins who precede them and end up in South America. If the ice, snow and misery which were good enough for grandpa and grandma are not good enough for their cream-puff offspring, that fact should be made known.

Those who were born in the South can be excused. They know no better and have at least a plausible excuse for living lives of relative worthlessness. It is those who know better, yet run ahead of the clutching fingers of King Winter who have earned the scorn of the valiant men and women who are courageous enough to stand fast though besieged by sore throats, tire chains, snowdrifts, storm windows and heating costs.

Sour Note

MONTREAL, (AP)—A speaker at the Notre Dame Community Council, discussing the train whistle nuisance, said some residents of the district suspect that some of the "unnecessary tooting" may simply be signals such as one train engineer telling a pal down the line that he won $10 in the poker game the night before. He said they communicated by a sort of Morse code.

Dump the Tax Collectors

By George E. Sokolsky

ONE OF THE great economic misfortunes of Europe has been the multiplying of customs barriers which prevent goods from moving from where they are made to where they are needed. They used to have such stations in China to collect the likin, a tax which has played a great part in China's ruin.

Now, we are getting such barriers in many parts of the United States. Often they are disguised as protections against germs or something, but wherever they exist, their purpose is to keep goods of one state from moving into another. They are interstate tariff bureaus.

SOKOLSKY

The great economic strength of the United States heretofore was a result of free communications, of the free movement of American goods from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Maine to Texas.

Recently, in Massachusetts, a citizen, Raymond S. Redfield, once president of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, was actually charged with the crime of purchasing eight cartons of cigarets, two gallons of wine and a quart of gin in Thompsonville, which is just over the Massachusetts line in Connecticut. Also, his car was seized. The court threw the case out, but it can happen again.

According to Redfield, he was in a town called Longmeadow on business and when he was on his way home, he went to Thompsonville and made the purchases. The state of Massachusetts had spies on hand who demanded to see the Connecticut purchases.

* * *

SPRINGFIELD in Massachusetts is in the general marketing city for residents of that area, which includes towns in Connecticut, and it is now possible that that state will enter upon a war of reprisal all along the border, seizing goods purchased in Massachusetts. It is said that Massachusetts is doing this sort of thing on its borders, which affects Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, New York and Vermont. It could turn New England into a Balkanized region.

New Hampshire caught Massachusetts agents who were spying on Massachusetts citizens and ordered them out of the state.

This is not a question of states rights; it is a question as to whether we live in the United States of America. Suppose a citizen is on a trip from, let us say, New York to Yellowstone, to see America first. Let us say that he stocks up with food, drink, cigarets and camping equipment. Will he have to pay a customs duty every time he crosses a state line? Or suppose he buys Indian blankets and toy totem poles in Yellowstone, will he have to pay customs duties every time he crosses a state line? Maybe the AAA will issue an interstate tariff schedule to help its touring members.

OUR LIVES are becoming increasingly and unpleasantly complicated as various agencies of the federal, state and municipal governments require more money. Americans are becoming involved in bookkeeping processes which are a nuisance and, so far as housewives are concerned, become burdensome because they are neither trained nor equipped to handle these chores. Small businesses are unable to carry the personnel necessary to do all the paper work involved in filling out forms and covering the myriads of taxes. They add to their expenses by hiring accountants and lawyers to do it for them.

When states erect barriers against their own citizens and other Americans, they are pursuing a harmful course, one, curiously, which was among the principal causes of the French revolution. The octroi was such an internal revenue tax which broke the backs of the French people.

AN AMERICAN ought to be free to buy and sell anywhere in the United States. It is true that the automobile makes it possible for a citizen in one state to make purchases in another, and there is nothing wrong about that. The great shops in New York would die of starvation if citizens of New Jersey and Connecticut, to say nothing of Pennsylvania and even Massachusetts, were forbidden to purchase here. I do not know the Chicago market as well, but I should imagine that the shops there get a goodly business from Indiana and Wisconsin.

The time is fast coming when an American citizen will wonder whether he is a free man in a free country or is a hounded creature run by a flock of tax-grabbing politicians who find a law to use against their superiors. We once had a Tea Party in Boston over taxes. We might, with good reason, have a few of them in many parts of the country, dumping the tax-collectors instead of the tea.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

J. S. Reed, merchant and banker, was born in Franklin County, Mass., April 13, 1819. He followed the career of a clerk until 1839 when he came to Marion and engaged in the mercantile trade on Main St. opposite the courthouse. For a period of 10 years he was general adjustor for several large insurance companies and while in that position audited large sums of money for indemnities in the great fires of Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville. He owned one of the finest libraries of his time and among his papers was a check filed and signed by Col. Aaron Burr upon the old Manhattan Bank of New York City. On the door of his reading room was an ancient knocker made in England prior to 1750, which had been used in the old Colonial and Revolutionary days.

Defense Against Divorce

HARTFORD, Conn., (AP)—A system of "divorce prevention" has been worked out by the Very Rev. Louis M. Hirshorn, dean of Christ Church Cathedral in Hartford. All couples married in the church in the past five years were invited to a special service, which began with the traditional sacred wedding music. The marriage ceremony was re-read and all were invited to stand and join in renewal of marriage promises. "I have known of church people who became divorced," the dean said. "Yet in my quarter century of the ministry, I have known not a single instance of those who have prayed and worshipped together habitually, to have become separated."

Congress Quiz

Q—Since the President's nomination of General Mark W. Clark to be ambassador to the Vatican came too late for the Senate action this year, why didn't the President give him a recess appointment?

A—General Clark would have had to resign from the army in order to accept the appointment. Before Congress next January will be Clark's nomination and a special bill to permit him to keep his army status while holding the diplomatic job.

Q—What happens to money government agencies have left over at the end of the year?

A—It goes back to the Treasury, unless the law granting the money specified it could be spent over more than year.

Daily Bible Thought

God would like to speak to us many times, but cannot get our attention: "Then Samuel said, speak; for thy servant heareth."—1 Sam. 3:10.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

New Acts

Jimmy Durante may now be said to have his nose inside the White House door. The Schnozzola and his writers are factors in the political campaign. Margaret Truman, the President's daughter has joined the Durante-Jackson comedy team, and a Republican candidate can lose the next election if no member of his family has video talent.

PHILLIPS

Harry Truman refuses to say whether he will run again or not, but Margaret gave out with "I'm puttin' on my top hat, I'm puttin' on my white tie, I'm doin' my strutaway," accompanying Durante off stage with gusto. The President's position at this very moment could, in fact, be perfectly explained in the Schnozzle's famous line "Didja ever have the feelin' ya wanted to go and still have the feelin' ya wanted to stay?"

* * *

Truman may run or not, but Margaret is running and winning. Doing it without Indian feathers, baby kissings or locomotive cab operations, too. The talented and likeable gal has linked the name of Durante with Truman and they are both big names to millions. If the Democrats get the vote of the Durante followers the GOP is sunk. Who is there in Robert Taft's family who can be put into a rival video show with Cantor, Wynn or Berle? If Ike runs where is there an Eisenhower who can team up with Martin & Lewis?

We are surely living in a democracy when the daughter of a President of the United States stars in a knockout comedy act and sells condensed milk. Her dad can withhold his decision until "the cows come home," but with Margaret and her sponsor the cows are already in. The gal may not be a sensation as an opera singer, but romping with Durante and giving out with light music she is plenty good and far out ahead of the "pros" in natural charm and good nature. Margaret mugged, shook and strutted with the country's rowdiest clown. She put a new face on the political situation . . . and the face bore the most famous nose in history. You can't tell about voters, the only certainty being that they will pull the lever for good fun any time.

It's possible that the voting public, yawning at such lines as "We must all stand together in this desperate hour" goes in a big way for gags like Jimmy's "I got a new limousine with a fancy top. Ya press the button and the top stays up but the bottom falls out." And "If elected I shall continue my fight for the more bountiful life" may leave 'em cold compared to "I got a new girl. Her name is Suzette. Last night she leans against a hot radiator and what have I got? Crepe Suzette!"

* * *

The possibilities of the Truman, Jackson & Durante tie-up are fantastic. Jimmy may yet land the Vice-Presidency and would certainly do what nobody else can do as Secretary of State. Incidentally if the President is smart he will grab one of Jimmy's best known lines. . . . Imagine him responding to another appeal for more Fair Deal projects with "I got a MILLION OF 'EM"!

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE BOOKIES

Break the law by night and day,
To honesty tut-tut!
The lawlessness is quite okay—
IF I CAN GET MY CUT!

THE REAL NEWS NEWSREEL

General Eisenhower visited a dentist just before his luncheon with the President. . . . This was not very flattering to the White House cooking. . . . Perhaps Harry, in wishing Ike would come through on his intentions, regrets that he didn't use the dentist's order "Open wider!" It's just possible the General heard the report of a boast by Harry that "no matter who runs I'll knock his teeth in" and was getting ready for a showdown. . . . "Militant Anti-Communist Labor Leader Gets Nobel Peace Prize"—headline. That can start the war with Russia. . . . A dining car waiter paid $50 for the new bookie registration card, thinking it was a license for him to operate. Probably agrees with a lot of customers that when anybody orders anything to eat these days it's a big gamble. . . . Clement Attlee has been awarded the Order of Merit, an honor just short of knighthood. The king probably felt that "Knight of the Free Wigs and Teeth" would sound too odd. . . . "The Big Show" is, all in all, good entertainment but everybody concerned should be told that the last place for the double entendre and the leer is on a Sunday night broadcast.

Ohio Vice Regent Of DAR Speaks To Marion Group

MRS. R. O. WHITAKER of London, vice regent of the Ohio State Daughters of the American Revolution, was a guest speaker at a meeting of Captain William Hendricks Chapter, Thursday evening. Hostess was Mrs. George E. Frank of E. Church St.

Mrs. Whitaker, who recently completed a tour of schools and places of interest to the organization, told of her trip. In discussing what is being done in other states she called attention to the restoration of the Christian Waldschmidt Home at Camp Dennison, O., which is a project of the state organization. Waldschmidt was the owner of the first paper mill in Ohio and it was in his mill the paper upon which the Constitution of the U. S. was written, was manufactured. Among the schools visited were Kate Duncan Smith at Grant, Ala., Blue Ridge Industrial School in Virginia, Pine Mountain Settlement School at Pine Mt., Ky. and others. All are supported by the DAR. Many of the schools are in isolated areas and some are as much as 100 miles from any other school, she stated. She also touched on a membership project in which an effort is being made to enroll third and fourth generations in the chapters.

Completing the program were colored slides shown by Mrs. K. B. Morgan. Miss Maxine Field was the narrator and scenes included DAR buildings in Washington, D. C. To open the program Mrs. C. H. Conley, chaplain, conducted the devotions.

A dessert preceded the program hour. The table was centered with an arrangement of rust colored chrysanthemums and presiding were Mrs. Morral and Miss Field. Bouquets of fall flowers were used throughout the rooms. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. O. V. Roby and Mrs. E. L. Bush.

Today's Fashion Flash

NEW YORK

FASHION today introduced a "double-duty skirt" — for underwear or outwear.

The stylish gimmick was a flaring felt skirt, with enough body to act as a petticoat for silks, and with enough character to act as a sports costume on its own.

The two-purpose novelty, designed by a lingerie manufacturer, was made of wool felt, and was liberally decorated with applique motifs.

Included in the appliques, sewn onto the skirt at the hip and hemline, were sequin-collared dogs, dragons, candy canes and Santa Clauses.

The designer advised women to wear it as a casual skirt on calm days—and as an intriguing petticoat when fashion whipped it up.

Evangelistic Services Set

Scheduled Sunday At St. Paul's Church

Two services with an evangelistic emphasis will be held at St. Paul's English Lutheran Church tomorrow, with a guest preacher in the evening, and special music including numbers by a guest soloist.

In the morning, Dr. Henry Schaeffer, pastor, will give an evangelistic centered message, and at 7:30 p.m., the Rev. John Root of Carey will speak on evangelism.

Seaman I. G. Bush of the U. S. Navy who is to be in Marion for the weekend will be the guest soloist. He is a brother of Mrs. James Sykes whose husband is Chief Metalsmith Sykes, Marion area recruiter. A veteran of World War II, and on duty for a time in Korean waters, Seaman Busch was recently on duty in the European area and has just returned to this country. The father of Seaman Busch and Mrs. Sykes is Dr. G. F. Busch, a Lutheran minister of Winnipeg, Canada.

Music for the morning service will be by the Junior Choir, and Mrs. John O'Connor and Mrs. Mrs. John O'Connor and Mrs. Sykes will sing "Oh Divine Redeemer," Gounod. It is expected that Seaman Busch will sing at the morning service. At the evening service he will sing "The Lord Is My Light," Allitsen, the Junior Choir will present a number, and Mrs. O'Connor and Mrs. Sykes will sing "Open the Gates of the Temple," Knapp. Mrs. Sykes will play organ numbers by MacFarlane, Tschaikowsky, and Brahams. The congregation will join in the singing of well-known hymns.

An organization of the church meeting next week is the Dorcas Society, Wednesday night with Mrs. Carl Lytle as hostess.

It was presented for the first time last Sunday night at a meeting of the local group to which parents were invited.

On a religious theme, "Faith Heals" is the story of the cure of Naaman, the leper. It was produced by the young people under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howard, who also wrote the script. Technical assistance and photography were by John Hoffman.

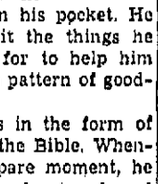
Helpful Techniques Of Prayer

—By Norman Vincent Peale—

IN MY MAIL each morning, I find an ever-increasing number of letters asking me how to pray. People seem to be spending more time in prayer, both in church and outside of it. And they're searching for, and often finding, new techniques of prayer.

For example, one woman I know of is a stenographer. She prays whenever she feels she needs help. She does this by writing her prayer out in her shorthand notebook. Then she tears out the page and files it away under that date in a special file she keeps. Each month, she reviews her prayers of the month six months before. She takes them out, reads them over and notes for future guidance whether they turned out all right or not and she studies them as to whether they were efficient prayers. She has discovered, in reviewing her prayers, that an extraordinarily high percentage of them have brought her real guidance.



Dr. Peale

NOT ALL OF us have the patience to set up so businesslike a system of prayer. But two young men who are working together building their small firm have a simpler technique. When they have a problem they talk the matter over and pray about it together. Then for a day or two, or longer if the problem is unusually complex, they pray about it separately. When they come together again, each one tells the other what guidance he has received. They tell me that, when they first started doing this, it didn't seem to make much difference, but the longer they have continued this method, the more they have noticed an increase in the number of correct decisions they are making.

On a train recently, I met a man who showed me a card he always carried in his pocket. He had written on it the things he wanted to pray for to help him form his life in a pattern of goodness and faith.

Most of it was in the form of quotations from the Bible. Whenever he had a spare moment, he would take this card out and read it over. That was his technique of prayer.

* * *

I MET A friend the other day whom I used to know as one of the most fearful men I had ever seen. All through his life, he had been afraid. He insisted on sleeping in the same room with his mother until he was 16. This infantilism had manifested itself throughout his life. The other morning I saw him breakfasting in a hotel. He pulled out a little book and began to read it. I walked over to him, greeted him and asked what he was reading. He handed the book to me. It was a little devotional book filled with statements about the watchful care of God. "I couldn't go through life anymore," he told me, "being afraid of everything and everybody; so I read this constantly. I really don't even need to read it anymore; I could tell it to you word for word."

"Go ahead," I said.

And he could and did. That was his particular techniqque of prayer and it certainly seemed to work for him.

ANOTHER FRIEND has given me a card to put in my car where I can easily see it. It reads, on one side: "God bless this automobile. This is God's car. No fear alarms its occupants for God's presence blesses them. The driver of this car is an emissary of God. God's wisdom inspires in him alertness, good judgment, quick decision, temperance and courtesy. The Spirit of the Lord is upon him and directs him in all his ways."

On the other side there is a prayer for protection: "The light of God surrounds me. The love of God enfolds me. The power of God protects me. The presence of God watches over me. Wherever I am, God is." I suggest that you clip this, paste it on a card and keep it in your own car.

Prayer, you see, isn't a Sunday go-to-church affair. It's something for everyday use. These techniques may give you some ideas for developing your own methods of asking for guidance, help and protection in every aspect of your everyday life.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEW YORK

IT IS NOT as fantastic as it sounds today—but 1952 may yet see the militant CIO endorse a Republican presidential candidate.

They like "Ike" at this CIO convention. But they're committed absolutely to the endorsement of President Truman if he runs for re-election. That endorsement definitely does not go automatically to any other presidential nominee of the Democrats. But should Mr. Truman, referred to here as "The Champ" by the highest CIO policy makers, decide it's time to retire, the CIO will most certainly consider at an end its obligation to the party which virtually created it.

Victor Riesel

In that event, should General Eisenhower win the GOP nomination next Summer, there would be a strong push in the CIO's top political circles for a switch in its 16-year alliance with and allegiance to the party which gave them the protective New and Fair Deals.

There would be franker and fuller talk about the General if the CIO leaders knew how he stood on labor and the policies that affect it.

FULLY AWARE of the labor leaders' fascinated interest in Gen. Eisenhower's policies, I communicated with him. My letter, seeking out his unrevealed stand on labor matters, arrived as he apparently was preparing his flight to the White House. His aide, Lt. Col. C. Craig Cannon, writes me the following:

"Gen. Eisenhower has asked me to acknowledge your recent letter . . . While the General appreciates the interest which prompted you to write, it is simply impossible for him to accede to your request. His days and thoughts are so completely occupied by the many problems associated with his military assignment in Europe that the can not possibly devote the time to matters not pertaining directly to those responsibilities. Hoping that you will understand his position and the reasons for this reply, the General sends best wishes."

THOUGH THIS left the labor chiefs exactly where General Eisenhower had left the nation, there was no change in sentiment. The CIO's political director, Jack Kroll, Political Action Committee chairman, said, on being informed of the military leader's reply:

"We think that's proper. We approve of that while he's in uniform. We are interested in the position of all candidates on matters vitally concerning us on the domestic and international fronts.

"In the future, PAC will operate as we always have, by judging candidates on their voting records. Since Eisenhower doesn't have one, we're naturally interested in learning what he does think of issues vital to us."

It should be made clear that there was not the slightest hint, in this conversation with Mr. Kroll, of any official support of the Western Commander-in-Chief. What Mr. Kroll was doing, in effect, was highlighting the CIO's political action resolution which said quite plainly that the CIO's doors were open to friendly candidates in both parties.

THIS IS WHAT the CIO's 13th Constitutional Convention said officially and specifically to its 6,000,000 members, from each of whom it expects a dollar for the presidential campaign

"Your Political Action Committee has . . . been the target of unprincipled slander and unrestrained libel. It has been charged with seeking to dominate the political life of the nation, on one hand, and with being dominated by one of the major political parties on the other hand . . .

"We declare that in this nefarious design they (the critics) will fail CIO-PAC will continue to operate as a powerful, independent force, not seeking to capture any political group and rejecting with all its power any attempt by any group to capture it.

"The Political Action Committee is further directed to continue to act on an independent and nonpartisan basis giving support to the progressive forces in the two major parties and basing its judgment of candidates and parties upon their records and platforms."

That says, in effect, that for the first time in its history, the CIO may hitch its wagon to a new political star—maybe five stars to be exact.

In The Doghouse

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

THE THING A WOMAN wants least from any man is his advice on how she should treat her husband.

Discovering this odd trait of feminine psychology has put me in dutch with a lot of lady readers.

A woman will go to a man today to design her dress or a new hair-do. She will ask his advice about the best stocks and bonds to invest her cash in. She will welcome—or at least listen to—male views on any subject in the world from how pretty she is to what a graceful carriage she has.

But let a poor hapless outside man tell her how to treat the guy in her life—and she bares her fangs in a storm of vowels and consonants. On the subject of how to handle her own chunk of manly real estate she wants to remain sole authority.

Hal Boyle

This dismal conviction arises from a mistake I made recently. The mistake lay in writing an article on "How To Spoil A Husband." My thesis was that a lot of American wives wanted to spoil their husbands, but had forgotten how. I undertook to tell them—but never again.

IN THE COURSE of my little essay I made the remark that a wife might greet her husband with his houseslippers in her teeth when he came home after a hard day over his hot desk at the office.

That waggish observation has landed me in the doghouse. For one thing, my own Ozark bride, Frances, happened to read the article.

"What you don't know about women, Rover, would fill an emptier head than yours," she began—and went on from there. It turned out to be a one-way conversation. Her way.

Then the letters begin to come in. The ladies across the land wanted to know whether I thought they ought to wear dog collars, too.

(Editor's note: well, they're cheaper than mink scarfs.)

(Boyle's note: look, you better stay out of this—or you're going to be in the soup also.)

MANY A WIFE also took just as much umbrage—about my innocent suggestion that she perform for her husband once in a while some of the small courtesies he usually performs for her—such as lighting up his cigaret for him.

"My husband will crash through 40 people at a cocktail party to strike a match for a blonde across the room," one said. "But at home if I stood there with an unlighted cigaret in my mouth he wouldn't notice it if he were wearing a microscope.

"If I ever light his cigaret for him — well, it'll be with a blowtorch."

And another wife wrote:

"We will gladly greet our husband with his slippers dangling from our mouths, if we are allowed to carry our dog manners a trifle further when he became slightly unreasonable.

"But what makes you think that momma has been sipping tea out of a golden cup ever since he left?"

SHE SAID THAT what threatened to drive most young mothers to drink was this: to spend a herculean day mopping, dusting, washing, ironing, and cooking — and then to have friend husband greet her at eventide thusly.

"Hello, dear wife, why do you look so tired?"

"And you say that we ought to get our own coats out of the closet and put them on all by ourselves, for a change, on the nights we go out! Well, Mr. Husband won't get a stiff arm from helping his wife scramble into her coat once every two months."

All right, ladies, I was wrong It isn't the husbands who need to be spoiled. Somone ought to tell them how to spoil wives—their own, naturally.

(Monday—Husbands: here's how to spoil your wife and have fun).

Musical Notes

by Gene Shellhorn

Don't be downhearted if you're a music lover with ambitions, yet can't carry a tune in the proverbial basket. Many an unmusical musician has hit the pinnacle of fame and fortune. And who knows, you may do the same?

Take Antonio Stradivarius, for instance. There was a lad who in the middle 17th Century wanted to set the world on fire vocally. He tried and he tried to make the sounds come out right But the results were mere toneless croaks that set everybody on edge including himself. He really didn't want to do anything but sing, but he couldn't carry a tune. So he took to whittling.

Before he knew it he'd whittled out the first Stradivarius violin. This, of course, gave him a high-spot in the world of music. And for anybody's money . . . his violins are still the best in the world.

All goes to prove that a Stradivarius in the hand is worth more than a Tenor in the bath-tub.
